The Nigerian economy

Extract A Merger in the banking sector

In 2024 the Central Bank of Nigeria approved the merger between Unity Bank and Providus Bank. Unity Bank is one of the largest banks in Nigeria, with 220 branches across the country. Providus Bank is much smaller, with only 23 branches. The merger between the two banks was approved to avoid the collapse of Unity Bank, that had total debts of N303.7 billion.

5

Unity Bank has a large network of branches in Northern Nigeria and is well-established in this region. It also has a good reputation with its customers. This merger will allow Providus Bank to access these customers.

Providus Bank is a small, financially stable bank. The Central Bank of Nigeria hopes that the merger will enable the business to benefit from economies of scale. For example, it would allow Providus Bank to share its managerial expertise in financial investments with Unity Bank.

Extract B Business closures

In January 2025 the Manufacturing Association of Nigeria (MAN) stated that 60% of manufacturers in the North-East region have shut down.

MAN stated that there had been a lack of incentives to attract investment. The North-East region had received little investment in infrastructure and the quality of roads and telecommunications was poor. Businesses in this region were significantly affected by the Government's decision to remove subsidies on petrol and diesel. This decision occurred when petrol and diesel prices were already rising. In December 2024 the rate of inflation had risen to 34.8%. This further increased business costs and reduced the level of business confidence. These factors, especially in the North-East region, caused hundreds of businesses to make significant losses.

Productivity has also been an issue in Nigeria. Businesses have not been able to invest in capital equipment because of low levels of profit. In addition, high rates of interest made borrowing money for investment costly. The base interest rate rose to 27.5% in February 2025.

15

However, in the service sector, industries such as finance, insurance and telecommunications have continued to grow despite the increase in costs.

Extract C Policies to support business

Since 2022 the Government of Nigeria has worked in partnership with private companies to invest in fibre optic infrastructure. This has helped to improve the quality of broadband throughout the country.

The Government also allocated N200 billion to support small-sized and medium-sized businesses in the capital city, Abuja. Loans were offered to these businesses to support them as they faced rising costs. In addition, manufacturers were provided with grants that would not need to be repaid to the Government.

5

Tax breaks of up to three years have been offered to businesses starting up in manufacturing and agriculture. There has also been a 25% tax reduction for businesses in the tourist industry and a tax reduction of up to 15% for businesses that are producing goods for export.
